TEXANS WEIGH IN ON THE NEW MARKETS TAX CREDIT

“NMTC means jobs and revitalization under-served communities and economic growth for neighborhoods and much needed funds for expansion of resources to those who need them most.”

-Jan Langbein, Genesis Women’s Shelter & Support, Dallas, Texas

“The NMTC program saves us valuable dollars so that we can put more money in the classroom for our predominantly minority, high poverty students. The program is vital and I respectfully request that you extend this wonderful program.”

-Randy Shaffer, CEO/Superintendent, Trinity Basin Preparatory, Grand Prairie, Texas

“Being able to leverage our resources to build community facilities like a medical clinic, we so badly need. Being able to afford NMTC financing vs. very expensive conventional financing is what the Pueblo needs. We support NMTC financing.”

-Roberto Franco, Director of Economic Development, Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo, El Paso, Texas

“The NMTC has fulfilled a dream of owning a new home for our low income families, especially the children that only dreamed of having a new home, but now congress has made it happened. thank you for all you do for low income families in our area.”

-Rey Jacquez, Administration and Finance Director, Affordable Homes of South Texas, Inc., McAllen

“The New Markets Tax Credit program is a vital resource in supporting small business resiliency. It will help move from paycheck protection to long-term self sufficiency for these vital economic resources for our national economic recovery efforts.”

-Micheal Ross, The Business Valued Advisor Fund, Austin, Texas

“The Women’s Home is proud of being able to leverage private dollars with City of Houston funds and a New Markets Tax Credit allocation. This blending of private, government and public funding is an important financing model that can be used to improve neighborhoods.”

-Paula Paust, Executive Director of The Women’s Home, Houston, TX
